Tell us about the three fields of focus.

Based on the most advanced technologies available to us, we've contributed to the prosperity and safety of societies around the world by providing a wide range of products that are the first of their kind in the world or in Japan, such as Shinkansen bullet trains, which enable high-speed transportation, and LNG carriers, which support power generation through environmentally-friendly natural gas. Today, as we face a series of rapidly changing social problems such as the coronavirus pandemic, global environmental issues, frequent natural disasters,
