

Woody biomass, including wood waste from lumber mills and thinned wood, is environmentally conscious energy resource that is recyclable and considered to generate no CO₂

